

Understanding your options to continue life insurance coverage

Portability and Conversion

You know that life insurance is an important part of your overall financial planning package. Now that your group insurance benefit eligibility has changed and your life insurance coverage has ended, you have options to continue your current life insurance coverage and maintain your family's financial health.

Why you need to continue your life insurance

Life insurance helps by providing a set amount of money to your beneficiaries when you die. With the right amount of life insurance, you can help ensure that your family will be well-protected. Most people associate life insurance with death benefits, but the value of life insurance is much more than just paying for your funeral expenses. This coverage may help to:

- Pay off your mortgage loan and other debts
- Cover your family's living expenses
- Ensure your family doesn't lose anything more (like their home, their future, their hopes)
- Take care of your children's education
- Provide your spouse and family with financial stability
- Provide for family member with special needs

You now have important decisions to make about continuing your life insurance benefits with Cigna. You may be able to continue coverage for yourself and your family by "porting" your group coverage or by "converting" your coverage to whole life insurance, and paying premiums directly to Cigna for either option. Here is some information about the differences between these two options to help you make this important decision.

	Portability (Port)	Conversion (Convert)
What is the difference between ported coverage and converted coverage?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When you port your coverage, you can keep the group term life coverage offered through a Cigna group insurance contract. • Term life insurance provides coverage for a specific term (in the case of ported coverage – up to a certain age). The policy expires at the end of the term, and there is no side fund or cash accumulation vehicle. It pays only the death benefit in the event you die during the period (or term) of coverage, and it has no accumulated cash value or benefit should you outlive the contract period (or term). 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When you convert your coverage, you are converting to an individual whole life insurance policy. The converted policy only provides life insurance, and does not include the optional benefits such as Waiver of Premium. • Whole life insurance builds cash value that you can borrow against or use to pay future premiums. Please read your conversion brochure for more details.
Does coverage reduce or terminate because of age?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Employee: Your coverage amount will reduce if there is an age reduction schedule as you reach the age specified in your group contract. Coverage remains in force as long as premiums are paid up to the age specified in your contract. Often this is age 70. ▪ Spouse: Coverage may also terminate upon you or your spouse reaching a certain age. Please consult your group contract for these ages. ▪ Child(ren): Upon reaching the age of majority (no longer eligible for dependent coverage) as specified in your group contract, ported coverage terminates for your children and conversion is offered. Some contracts allow children who have reached the age of majority to port their coverage separately. Please consult your contract. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Coverage can be maintained up to age 99, as long as premiums are paid. • There is no age reduction schedule on the individual whole life policy.
